

3 WAYS TO ATTACH A TAIL EXTENSION

SECURE METHOD

This is a reinforced and secure way to attach a tail. It's good for a tail swisher and weighted tails.

- Separate a one-inch section from the bottom of the tailbone, on one side of the tail. Similar to the Basic Method, braid the fake tail loop into the real tail braid.

- Once you've braided the real hair down to be flush with the fake tail hair, grab small sections of the fake hair on either side of the braid and incorporate it into your braiding. Continue adding fake tail hair and braiding for about four inches.

- Secure the braid with a rubber band. Repeat on the other side, braiding the tail hair.

- Add the fake tail loop to your braid. Grab pieces of fake tail hair and add it to your real hair braid. Continue braiding and then secure with a rubber band. The completed attachment is secure, even with a horse that swishes its tail. It also offers support for heavy tails. As always, wrap the fake tail and braids with electrical tape.
