

ARTIST GUIDELINES

Thank you for your interest in submitting artwork to HORSE ILLUSTRATED. We hope that you find the following guidelines helpful.

- We use illustrations for human interest, humor or topics where photographs aren't readily available.
- Medical illustrations are also of interest for veterinary topics.
- Samples should be relevant to our subject matter, depicting horses or other aspects of equestrian life.
- A link to your website or online gallery is the easiest way for us to review your work and style. A PDF file or color copies may also be sent. Please do not send samples or original artwork that needs to be returned.
- It is also helpful for us to know your rates (our basic pay scale is detailed below).

ILLUSTRATION ASSIGNMENTS

Occasionally we assign illustrations to freelance artists for specific stories. For special assignments, we pay $100 and up. Spot illustration ranges from $35-$75. Payment is made on publication in the latter part of the cover month in which your artwork appears (i.e., if it appears in the November issue, you will receive your check in the latter part of November).
